GUIDING LIGHT

A COUPLE'S VISION OF GEOMETRIC ELEGANCE BECAME THE CREATIVE CENTER POINT OF 'VILLA QUANTUM.'

A CULTURAL HYBRID

The defunct grain silos that have towered above the Victoria & Albert Waterfront in Cape Town, South Africa, since 1924 have been repurposed and topped by the glass-clad, 28-room Silo Hotel. London-based architect Thomas Heatherwick fulfilled the transformation, adding window panels that bulge outward and make the building appear, when lit from within, like a lantern. There's a pool and a bar on the rooftop, but the best feature is the lower-level tenants-to-come. In September, the Zeitz Museum of Contemporary Art Africa will open and the hotel will offer private tours. ## BAJA BEAUTY

From the wine country in the north to the beach resorts of the south, Mexico's Baja Peninsula has become synonymous with easygoing outdoor living. The new Chileno Bay Resorts & Residences in Cabo San Lucas, from Auberge Resorts, captures that breezy style. It features 60 guest rooms with open floor plans, generous terraces and outdoor showers, and 32 two- to six-bedroom villas. San Francisco-based interiors firm BAMO fills the rooms with natural wood, local stone, patterned Mexican tile and marine-inspired colors. On a swimmable beach, the resort supports beach-body maintenance with paddleboarding, a juice bar and fitness classes led by a CrossFit Games champ. Rooms from $675, 844-207-9354, <http://chilenobay.aubergeresorts.com>.
